A b s t r a c t

The present invention relates to a test system comprising at least two recognition species which recognize at least two different markers with formation of a complex, its preparation and use in a suitable detection process.